Lee B. Harkness

HANOVER — Lee B. Harkness, former Hanover police chief, died Monday of an apparent heart attack in a Savanna business firm.

Mr. Harkness was also a former city electrician here and at the time of his death was employed by H & M Builders of Savanna.

He was born Dec. 27, 1895, in Elizabeth, son of James and Ellen (Bowden) Harkness. He married Florence Wadleigh in May, 1925.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Richard (Evelyn) Hoxie and Mrs. Floyd (Marcheta) Kisner, both of Rockford; a stepson, David Bellein, Bellevue, Iowa; a brother, Cleveland, Warren; two sisters, Mrs. Ada Potter and Mrs. Hazel Miller, both of Hanover; and three grandchildren.

Service will be at 2 p.m. Wednesday in United Presbyterian Church's Christian Education building. Burial will be in Evergreen Cemetery. Howard Griffin, student pastor, will officiate.

Friends may call in Nadig Funeral Home here until noon Wednesday.
